Firm Overview

Garcia, McCoy & Lee Consulting Group (GML), a Women/Minority Owned firm, provides consulting services related to real estate development, land use, public affairs, and public policy for both private and public sector entities.

GML's partners, Dan Garcia, Lucy McCoy, and Mee Lee collectively represent over 60 years of proven expertise in the areas of real estate and public affairs. At GML, 60 years denotes in-depth knowledge, a proven record of accomplishment, and extensive credibility in the community.

The partners at GML possess the ability and experience to evaluate a project, identify essential issues, and quickly develop the most effective strategy to meet client goals. They know who to call, they have access, and they have knowledge. Committed to providing each client with personal attention, the GML partners share a hands-on approach to delivering results-oriented services. A partner manages each project, and every project is a true partnership collaboration. This commitment maximizes productivity and ensures clients the highest level of service, responsiveness, and results.

Unlike many real estate consultants who typically specialize in one or two areas, GML offers services encompassing real estate development, real estate law, urban planning, and public affairs—all under one roof.
